Sponsorships sought for sesquicentennial promotional merchandise and projects

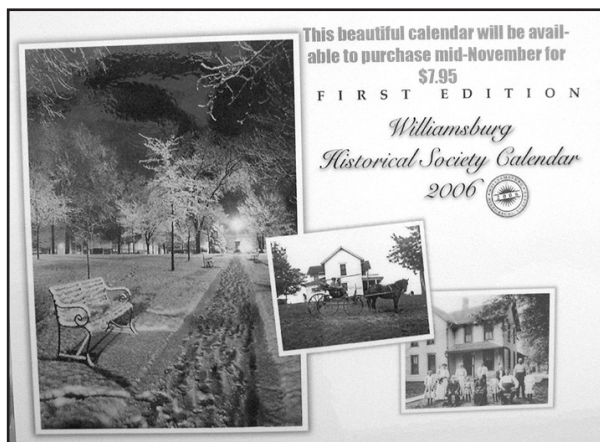

The Williamsburg Historical Society is seeking interested businesses, organizations and families to sponsor a variety of promotional items and projects in preparation of Williamsburg's sesquicentennial celebration in 2007.

The Williamsburg Historical Society 2006 calendar is the first edition of an on-going project and is currently being completed for purchase by the community. The calendar includes several photographed scenes of the city and its people, some photographed as far back as the 1890s, that were submitted by local families and individuals and sponsored by local businesses and organizations.

Since the historical society is a non-profit organization, it relies heavily on these sponsorships and donated historical items. There are still many opportunities to get involved with sesquicentennial projects. If you would like to help sponsor the 2007 calendar or any of a variety of promotional items for sale, have an idea for a project you would like to sponsor or have items to donate or loan to the historical society to be used by the sesquicentennial committee, call the sesquicentennial office at (319) 668-1651 or e-mail to marymiller@iowatelecom.net.

Check out the clothing, merchandise and pottery now for sale at www.williamsburg150years.com. Click on "ecommerce" and view the catalog.
