Seeking diaries, journals for sesquicentennial history book

Did you or someone you know keep a journal or diary that includes daily life unique to the Williamsburg community?

The Sesquicentennial History Book committee is looking for any journal or diary entries to include as excerpts in the history book. Points of interest could include life on the home front during war, diaries kept by soldiers during war, living through the Depression of the 1930s, pioneer life, rural living and local childhood memories.

Journals and diaries submitted for the history book will be handled with care and returned to their owners in a timely manner. For more information call Callie Wetjen at (319) 668-1240, (319) 551-3937, or e-mail to cmwjteditor@yahoo.com.

Local church history sought for sesquicentennial book

LaVonne Sandersfeld is collecting history of Williamsburg churches that will be included in Williamsburg's sesquicentennial history book.

Churches founded in Williamsburg or founded outside Williamsburg but moved into the community will be included in the sesquicentennial book.

She is asking church historians and clergy to contact her at (319) 668-9439 or sanders@highstream.net.

Information sought includes when and where the church was founded, founding members and church officials, cultural history behind the church, past and current clergy, basic congregation information, anniversary celebrations and important events, photographs and memorabilia.

Do you have photographs of "the old golf course," once located south of Williamsburg? If so, give Phil Jones a holler at (319) 668-1723, or call the sesquicentennial office at (319) 668-1651.
